Was there light AMTB protection at Port Moresby?

Do remember there was no light AMTB protection at Port Moresby until Boom Section, Paga Battery, and Gemo Battery, were completed, both in 1944. The old 6-pdr would likely have served thus until that time. [AMTB = anti-motor torpedo boat] The lower gun emplacement (Element 3) at Paga Hill Battery where the Twin 6-pounder guns were located.

Who built the Port Moresby battery?

This was the largest of the Port Moresby batteries and was built by the 8th Army Troops Coy, Royal Australian Engineers in July 1944. Emplacements for three 5.25-inch guns were built but only two guns were installed. There was an observation post built on the hill top. The three gun positions overlooked Fairfax Harbor and Idlers Bay.

Floor plates in the building range from 27,000 to 29,000 square feet and offer sweeping views of New York Harbor, the Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island, Governors Island, and ...
